

No, there are two PIR's (sensors) that need to be triggered before an intruder is recognised. To avoid the animal from triggering the Roboguard you simply install the bottom PIR at the height of the dog's tail. So no matter how big your animal is, it will never set it off.